Graduation And Prom Big Success

Ninety high school students, including a record 27 graduates, along with about 50 parents attended the annual high school prom in the T.O.O.F. hall on Friday, May 30. This year's prom was one of the most successful in many years.

High school president Frank Oliva, in his toast to the teaching staff, thanked the teachers for their work during their school life; for making school not only book-learning but also a place where much enjoyment was had.

Mr. J. McDonald replied to the toast proposed by the president. He said that at these occasions, teachers wonder and reflect on their work and the objectives in their teaching, and often ask themselves "Were we successful in our objectives?" Mr. McDonald told the gathering that the school tries to impart on the pupil a certain amount of factual knowledge which will be necessary in later life. It tries to instill in a pupil a sense of sound judgement; it tries to teach pupils to think clearly and concisely; and tries to fit them into our society. If, with these principles, the student sets an objective for himself, then a gratifying life is possible.

Tribute was paid to the school board when a toast was proposed to this body by Ken Hammer. Mr. Cornett, chairman of the board, replied to the toast. He told the students that the board was there to see that the students were happy and that they receive the best of educational facilities possible. He congratulated the graduating class for their perseverance throughout their school life.

Shirley Wood proposed a toast to the parents and thanked them for their efforts in keeping the students in school even against overwhelming odds at times. Mr. Jim Parks replied on behalf of the parents. He thanked the teachers for the guidance given the pupils in choosing their way of life. He hoped that the spirit of co-operation between teachers, pupils and school board would continue, as this co-operation benefits the pupils in the long run. He congratulated the graduates and hoped they would continue their studies.

Lenore Dutil gave the valedictory, pointing out the immensity of the job now facing the graduates, the pitfalls and guiding posts along the way of life.

In speaking to the graduating class, Mr. Allen stressed the importance of continuing their education in order to meet the challenge of Alberta's industrial expansion. On their social side, Mr. Allen stressed the need of co-operation in social activities. He told the students to be loyal—to their work, to their town, their province and their country.

Frances Kowenko thanked the teachers and parents on behalf of the graduating class. Gloria Ryznar thanked the ladies of the Royal Purple for catering to the high school and making the prom a success.

After the banquet pupils, parents and teachers moved to the auditorium to continue the night's festivities. A humorous one-act play was put on by the members of the high school.

Dancing followed until 1 a.m. At midnight a barrage of balloons were let loose and noise makers and hats given out, which added to the merriment.

Off on the Wrong Foot
"How was the wedding?" asked the wife of the minister.

"It was fine until I asked the bride if she would obey, and she said 'Do you think I'm crazy?' The groom was sort of dazed by this time and mumbled 'I do.' That's when things began to explode."

Funeral services were held at Holy Ghost church with Very Rev. Dean Sullivan officiating. Interment followed in the Holy Ghost cemetery. Many friends of the deceased from Bellevue, Blairmore and Coleman attended the funeral.

Assistance Assured Minor Hockey Teams

The Executive of the C.N.P. Hockey Association brought their aims and desires before the Alberta Hockey Association and the Western Canada Junior League at their recent meeting in Blairmore, and have been assured that assistance will be forthcoming for the promotion of minor hockey.

The W.C.J.H.L. meeting at Blairmore last Saturday and Sunday saw a return to the league of two years ago and the exclusion of the interlocking schedule with northern Saskatchewan junior teams. The plan for a separate Alberta league failed to materialize while discussion was held regarding the possibility of R.C. entering. It is expected that Trail will be included within a couple of years.

The meeting uncovered the fact that every team in the loop lost money last year, and a committee has been appointed to look into cutting expenditures and money raising.

With an aim of a making the C.N.P. Association the biggest in Canada with an opportunity of providing sport for between 7 and 800 children the local delegates discussed plans with the Alberta Association and were assured of their assistance.

The Coalers annual meeting will be held in Blairmore on June 25th.

G. Nestor Returns From Korea

George Nestor outside bunker on Korean front

George Nestor arrived home from Korea on May 20. George was a wireless operator with the PPCLI and went overseas on April 1951. He is now on 60 days leave and will apply for discharge in July, when his 18 months service will have been completed.

George arrived in Korea and proceeded to the front in time to build up the defence at the Hang River during the Red Spring offensive. The company advanced to the present front with the Americans. From that time action consisted of patrolling the line. The company headquarters were situated in an abandoned mine.

During the past winter the boys made their own gas stove to ward off the cold. The bunkers where they were stationed on the front are made of logs covered with straw and mud and roofed in the same materials to protect them from shell fire.

Of the food, George said it wasn't bad but it could be better. There were plenty of cigarettes, chocolates, razor blades, etc. Each platoon received rations of these materials for 100 men each week. The one item which soldiers found scarce was reading material.

The country, he explained was very rugged, and any moving

John Fisher To Address Meeting

The Coleman Board of Trade held a supper meeting on May 21. At the meeting the members discussed the possibility of having the members of the Pass Merchants Association closing their stores on Saturday, July 5, Rodeo day. A letter will be sent to the Association asking the merchants if they would consider closing on that day.

The Coleman Board of Trade and the Blairmore Chamber of Commerce will hold a banquet at the Turtle Mountain Playgrounds on July 14. Guest of honor at the banquet will be John Fisher, noted Canadian commentator. It is planned that Mr. Fisher will be in Fernie in the morning, at Coleman until 3 p.m., and at Blairmore until 5:30 p.m. The expenses of the banquet will be borne by the coal companies. The full details have as yet to be worked out, but it is planned that a ladies' night will be held in conjunction with the banquet. Tentative price will be $2.00 per ticket.

Mr. Allan J. Cullen, of Rice, Paterson, Cullen, and Ives, barristers and solicitors of Lethbridge, was the guest speaker for the evening. Mr. Cullen ably held the attention of all present with his account of court cases involving army personnel in Europe during the last war. Mr. Cullen was assigned to the Judge Advocate General's Branch, the legal advisory body for army personnel. The branch of the armed forces was set up to handle legal cases involving Canadian soldiers, and give all possible legal advice. The Judge Advocate General's Branch was divided into four divisions: The Claims Division, Legal Aid Division, Courtmartial Division, and the Civil Trials Division. Mr. Cullen served on all four.

Canadian soldiers in England had to observe British Civil law, and as such, any misdemeanor was brought before civil and not military law. The British Civil Law also provides that when a defendant had no monetary means of providing council for defence, the court employed lawyers for him. The result was that Canadian soldiers were defended by some of the best lawyers in England.

The Legal Aid Division was set up and it was the main reason for setting up the whole branch. This division handled domestic difficulties of the soldiers and helped in keeping the Canadian soldier free from worry over legal affairs and thus increased their morale in general.

Mr. Cullen illustrated the importance of the branch by some specific examples which kept the members chuckling for a considerable time.

New Manager For Coleman Pharmacy

R. (Dick) Lingard has assumed the duties of manager at Coleman Pharmacy, replacing F. W. Smith. Mr. and Mrs. Lingard arrived a few weeks ago from Prince Albert, Sask., and have taken up residence in Coleman. They are members of the United church.

Mr. and Mrs. F. W. Smith and Kenneth will reside in Penicton, where Mr. Smith has secured employment with McKen's Pharmacy. A daughter Thelma is attending business college in Kelowna. Mr. and Mrs. Smith have resided in Coleman for approximately ten years.

That was done was usually by foot as the only roads were the main supply routes. The company employed civilian Korean boys to wash clothes, carry supplies, and do the cooking and general chores. These boys live mainly on rice and for that reason are called "rice burners". While serving in Coleman met Joe Fumfer of Bellevue and Golia and Johnny Russell of Coleman.

OUR COMPLETE SHORT STORY

Bert Gilford, Sport

George Mervin Was Suspicious
Of a Man Who Couldn't Live
On Fifty a Week.

By Louis Arthur Cunningham

GEORGE MERVIN, president of Gilford and Mervin, brokers, glared at his assistant-cashier and pounded the desk to enforce his belongings. "A raise!" he snorted. "You'll get no raise, Gilford. Think because your name's like the one on this firm's stationery that you own the place, don't you? Well, I'll tell you this, young man, Sam Gilford got his name there because he worked for it and saved his money. You're not like that; you're always having money advanced, you're always broke. Yet you refused to subscribe to a single fund that my employees tried to raise this year. When I come back I'm going to fire you. You're a waster. I don't see how you come to have such a good name as Gilford. Oh, yes, I'll admit you work well, but you're no improvident. We are suspicious of a man who can't live on the fifty a week we pay him."

Bert Gilford writhed before the portly boss's denunciation. Mervin was leaving for a holiday that morning and it had seemed a good thing to ask for a raise. He had not expected this accusation, but all that Mervin had said was undeniable. He rose slowly from his chair.

"I'm sorry, Mr. Mervin. I did the best I could. I liked to work for Gilford and Mervin. . . sort of pride in the name, though of course I'm no relation of Gilford."

"Right you're not," snapped back Mervin. "Sam would have been ashamed to own you. What do you spend your salary on . . . women?"

Young Gilford flushed, but held his tongue. Mervin looked disgusted. "When I come back in a month's time, you'll see. I've learned that you live alone and have no one to support. I asked because I liked you and was interested in you. I won't say how I think you spend your money."

Bert did not wait for more. Mervin was a hard man. The youngster had been with the firm almost a year. He had made good except for those faults that Sam Mervin had spoken about. Bert was always broke, often having money advanced or borrowing it from the fellows who worked in the office.

Sam Mervin promptly forgot all about his clerk, the prospect of a week in the Maine woods . . . moose to hunt, trout to tempt with the fly. The country was familiar to him. He took no guide and made direct for a lake where he had camped before.

It was night when he got there and a neat string of profanity perforated the still, balsamy air and scared the birds out of their sleep; the camp was gone, the lakeshore had been cleared of trees and a great dark-field stretched away into the darkness. The march of agriculture had destroyed Sam Mervin's favorite stamping ground.

As he stood there in the darkness and fervently cursed farmers in whom sporting blood has thinned to a money-hunting serum, rain began to fall. Sam recollected an old ruin of a farm up on the hill. He had never gone there, but now it was a case of any port in a storm.

Nolay watch-dogs discovered his approach. Heralded by their mad baying he walked up to the door which he opened for him already. "Come in, stranger," a tall old man invited. "Ma'an me's just finished supper, but there's plenty mouse steak, blacuits and tea."

It was like a bird into heaven for hungry Sam Mervin. He thrust himself into the room and threw his dunnage in a corner. Then he looked around. He had never seen a room so comfortably homelike. There was a fireplace, a big sofa, deep chairs. "Say . . ." exclaimed Mervin in his abrupt way. "Was this place always here?"

A motherly old lady had come to join the man. She was plump, kindly, be-spectacled. "No, no," she said. "Just this year we could afford these comforts and hire men to work the farm. Pa's too old for that, you know. We've always craved nice things but we had to wait till we got prosperous, Mister . . ."

"Mervin," growled Sam, impressed by their amiability. "Be you from the city?" demanded Pa. "Our son Bert has a partner o' that name. Bert's in the brokerage business . . . Gilford and Mervin. Bert sends us heaps of money, the almost forty dollars each week till we get our crop-money. You ain't Bert's partner now, are you, Mr. Mervin?"

Sam Mervin said yes, more gently than anyone could suspect. And he meant it.

THE TILLERS

People Of Strasbourg, Sask.,
Are Proud Of Their Mountain

(By Bob Moon in The Regina Leader-Post)

STRASBOURG, Sask.—Strasbourg's No. 1 geographical feature is a mountain. Some people say it used to be called Lost mountain and its name somehow got changed to Lost mountain. Although after you've been to Strasbourg and tried to pick it out you think it still should be called Lost.

The people of Strasbourg describe the pinnacle as the "peak". They say that on a clear day you can see 20 towns from the top.

On a clear day the people of Strasbourg can even look out of their windows and see the mountain.

Last mountain is about four miles north and 1½ miles east of this community. Some say the slope up to the peak starts right at the town. The rise is gradual until the top is reached a couple of feet higher than at the start of the climb.

On the north side the decline is steeper and the mountain looks more imposing there.

It still can't exactly be said to dominate this community physically but it's left its mark on the inhabitants.

For you can't dismiss a feature that causes a town to call its main street Mountain street and another Valley avenue.

The long body of water 12 miles to the west was named Last Mountain lake. The provincial political constituency that Strasbourg falls itself in is called Last Mountain.

A Strasbourg hotel used to be called Last Mountain.

Among other things there are: A Last Mountain Valley school, an East Mount school, a Mount Hill school, a Mountain Chase school, and an East Mount Baptist church.

W. A. Richardson, the editor of the Mountaineer, Strasbourg's weekly newspaper, will tell you how his paper got its name.

They were standing around the hotel back in the early 1900's and wondering what to call the paper.

Someone suggested Mountaineer and the name stuck. Naturally.

Legend has it that the Indians never could pick seneca, a medicinal plant, near Last Mountain because the area was taboo.

Today, there's good deer hunting there in the fall and the berry picking is noted.

A town saboteur will tell you about a miner from a far province who went to look at Last Mountain and simply raised his eyebrows.

A wag once suggested that the people of Strasbourg make mountains out of molehills.

But for the most part the populace take all this in good part. "We don't mind being laughed at about our mountain," is the way one of them puts it.

Rights In Error

CALGARY. — Farmer Anton Tuttle now owns mineral rights valued at well over $1,000,000 on his quarter-section of land in the Leduc district because of a mistake made in the land titles office in 1908.

This was the decision of Mr. Justice W. E. Egbert in a judgment handed down here. Mr. Tuttle won his case against the Canadian Pacific railways and Imperial Oil limited.

The involved legal dispute was tried in Alberta supreme court in Edmonton last January. The property involved is in the heart of the Leduc oil field and at present is surrounded by scores of producing wells.

Briefly, the circumstances are that in 1908 the land was in the hands of a man named Egbert, who transferred to Mike Rodgomy, a reserve coal and petroleum to the C.P.R. At that time, an error was made in the land titles office and the title read "reserving unto the C.P.R. all coal."

The wording remained the same when Mr. Tuttle took over half the property in 1911 and the remainder in 1918.

An attempt was made in 1943 to correct the original error and the wording of the title was changed by adding the words "and petroleum."

This made the title read "reserving unto the C.P.R. all coal and petroleum."

The court dispute was mainly over two points—whether or not the register of land titles had the right to make the correction, and to decide who actually owned the petroleum rights.

Mr. Justice Egbert ruled that the plaintiff, Mr. Tuttle, "is entitled to the relief he seeks," and that the words "and petroleum" which were added to the title do not have any effect.

Court officials said the action may be extremely important in determining the effect of the Torrens system of land titles.

Under the system, originated in Australia in the middle of the 19th century, the existing title on a piece of property has been considered to be absolute. In other words, when a piece of land is purchased the purchaser is entitled to everything not reserved in the title.

The Torrens system has been in effect in Alberta since it was incorporated as a province.

Success comes in "cans".

NOTES AND COMMENTS

A Rising Menace

A year or two ago, a stretch of highway outside the city of Edmonton was appropriately termed the "Death Mile". Unless the council here adopts a "get-tough" policy we in Coleman will have our own "Death Mile".

Up to the present, some fault along the new highway through 4th Street has prevented motorists from taking full advantage of the horses under their car hoods, but once the asphalt is laid, children crossing the highway to and from school will gamble with death. If nothing is done, someone will lose the gamble!

At present the traffic is detoured through 3rd Street and a lot of it goes directly downtown. There are about four hundred youngsters in and about the school for a time during the day. These youngsters are too busy living to give much thought to dying. With vans, trucks, cars and what have you, routed through that street this week, traffic has been anything but controlled. If anything it has been chaotic. When the highway is finished, and traffic is mainly "through traffic", the problem of youngsters going to and from school across the highway will still be with us. Speed limit and school signs have little meaning on a smooth, seemingly clear road. Intersections along the road are for the main part "blind".

Even now, with speed limited by road conditions, traffic emerging from the rock cut above the Catholic church swoops down upon these intersections in little time. Later, with increased speeds, motorists will have little time to stop should the need arise.

The only apparent method of attacking this menace would be patrolling this stretch of road. It may mean increasing the police department, if only for the times youngsters go and come from school.

It may be easier to explain higher expenditures to the tax-payers than to explain to some distraught parents why their little boy or girl is dead!

The cancer drive is now on in Coleman. Be ready. Greet your canvasser cordially.

Coleman's Day

Every major town and city in the province, and for that matter, in the country, has one period in the year when that town or city has a celebration, which may be unique to that particular town or city. In Coleman our annual celebration is the Rodeo day. Although our rodeos have been comparatively few in number, they are becoming more and more important as an annual event in our lives.

It would be quite difficult to imagine the Calgary Stampede being discontinued, or the National Hockey League playoffs, or the World Series. Although our rodeo is not in those proportions, still in our own little way, the rodeo is just as important, and should never be allowed to die.

Without these little breaks in our working life, our existence would become too humdrum, and in order to have these breaks we should support them in any way we can. To continue our rodeos in future years they must not only be successful aesthetically but financially as well. They must at least pay for themselves, or such undertakings are out. Attendance to them, therefore, is essential. To make them successful we must attend ourselves, be proud of our own rodeo, and convince others that they should attend also. We must advertise it, not only by the usual press and banner means but by word and mouth. Not all people read the papers, but a great majority speak. It's our job to make the Pass and the rest of Southern Alberta and B.C. Coleman Rodeo conscious.

Cadets Take Part In Inspection Parade

Coleman Cadets took part in the Annual Inspection and combined parade of Blairmore and Bellevue-Hillcrest Cadet Corps at Hillcrest this evening. The Cadets displayed the knowledge that they have attained before an inspection party of Major D. J. Watson M.C., E.D., Pincher Creek, Capt. F. J. Swan, Calgary, Capt. J. H. Pratt, Blairmore WO2 W. Brown, Hillcrest, and Sgt. K. E. McLeod, Calgary.

The evenings activities consisted of the general salute, inspection, march past and presentation of awards. The Crows Nest Pass Band assisted in the parade. Following the parade and inspection a demonstration in firing the 2 inch mortar was given, and picked cadets gave demonstrations in instruction and map using.

Capt. D. Vasek, Coleman, acted as second in command of the parade, assisted by C.CSM K. Leithwaite and C.Sgt. D. Fraser, of Coleman. Sgt. R. Lowe is one of the instructors.

People shop where they are invited—that's why it pays to advertise.

Coleman Students Win Writing Awards

Two Coleman students received awards in the creative writing competitions sponsored by the Banff School of Fine Arts.

Winners were Archie Stewart of grade 9 and Glory Kroesing of grade 8 who placed second and third respectively in the poetry competition, open to grades 8 to 10. 'Wild Woolly West' by Archie Stewart and 'A Dream of Spring' by Glory Kroesing appear below.

Wild Woolly West
In the Wild Old West, where ways were crude,
If you couldn't ride you were called a dude.

The law was there to stop the wrong
But the poor old sheriff didn't live long.

At night by the fireside as the young cowboys sang
The old-timers told of the old mustang.

Of wild Indians, Sioux and Iroquois,
Who did not heed the white man's law.

They spread terror throughout the land,
Each leader with his faithful band.

Old Sitting Bull and Buffalo Bill
Fought each other just for the thrill.

All this happened in the Rugged Old West
But we like nineteen fifty best.

A Dream of Spring
Softly the night upholds the dream
Of the vision of a carpet green.

Sprinkled by fairies, nymphs and elves,
With crocuses, daisies, and gay blue bells;

Moss softer than feather down,
Dewy jewels brighter than the king's crown;

The cheerful brook laughing and singing,
Telling of all the joy spring's bringing.

Sunlight peeps noisily through the trees;
The new grass sways gently with the breeze.

The rain falls gently on the earth
Making the flowers smile with mirth.

Gently the vision fades away;
The dreamer wakes to a new day.

The kettle whistles a merry lilt,
Cheering the gloom that winter has built.

MacFARLANE — BURNIAK

The Holy Ghost church was the scene of a very pretty wedding at 11:30 a.m., Saturday, May 24, when Irene, third daughter of Mr. and Mrs. L. Burniak, and Douglas MacFarlane, only son of Mrs. Wilson and the late Mr. MacFarlane, were united in marriage.

Father Sullivan officiated while Miss Shirley Wood presided at the organ.

The bride was charmingly attired in a floor-length gown of white satin with a Queen Ann collar, lace peplum and full skirt. Her finger tip veil fell from a coronet of seed pearl.

Mrs. Frank Yanota, sister of the bride, clad in a blue gabardine suit with white accessories and a corsage of pink roses, acted as the matron of honor.

Rose Bubniak, Frances Kowenko, and Beatrice Gejdos were bridesmaids. They wore floor-length gowns of pastel shades with matching bonnets and carried bouquets of spring flowers.

Russell Montalbetti, cousin of the groom, Albert Galtman and Lawrence Ottosen acted as best men.

The bride's mother wore a navy dress with white accessories and a corsage of white carnations, while the groom's mother wore a green suit with white accessories and a gardenia corsage.

A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents where many friends attended the dinner at which a beautiful three-tiered wedding cake and spring flowers decorated the table.

For travelling the bride chose a navy suit with white accessories and a gardenia corsage. The couple are spending a short honeymoon in Great Falls and upon their return will reside in Coleman where the groom is employed at Coleman Collieries.

SIKORA — ZINOOK

A lovely wedding was solemnized in Coleman on Saturday, May 24, at the Catholic church, between Miss Ireen Zinook and Mr. Louis Sikora.

The bride looking very lovely wore a gown of heavy white satin, boasting a long train, bustle back, ruffled front with a sweetheart neckline, and lily point sleeves. Her headress was of rhinestones and seed pearls holding in place a three-quarter length veil. This lovely ensemble was completed by a bouquet of gardenias and pale pink roses.

There were two bridesmaids, one was the sister of the bride, Miss Josephine Zinook, who was dressed in a salmon pink gown of triple layer net over taffeta, and the other was the sister of the groom, Miss Anne Sikora, who wore a mauve net gown over taffeta. Both girls wore matching chapel veils and carried colonial cups of pink and white carnations as bouquets. Groomsman was Mr. Joe Sikora, and the matron of honor was Mrs. Steve Liska, all of East Coleman. The reception was held at the home of the bride's mother in East Coleman, where approximately fifty guests were present.

Mr. and Mrs. L. Sikora will make their home in Coleman, where Mr. Sikora is employed in the Coleman Collieries.

AMELL — McEWEN

A wedding of interest took place on Saturday evening, May 31, at 7 o'clock in the United Church, when Marion, youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bert McEwen of Coleman, exchanged marriage vows with Edgar Amell of Cornwall, Ontario. Rev. E. Morrison officiated at the ceremony.

The bride entered the church on the arm of her father. She wore a three-quarter length gown of blue net over taffeta and carried a nosegay bouquet made up of sweetpeas and roses with trailing white ribbons. Adorning her head was a little white veiled straw hat. She was attended by her sister, Mrs. Jack Dudley of Hillcrest, who wore a three-quarter length gown of yellow nylon and carried a bouquet of sweetpeas centered by a Shasta daisy.

The bridegroom was attended by Mr. Jack Dudley.

A reception was held at the home of the brides parents and was attended by friends and immediate relatives. A buffet supper was served and a three tier wedding cake centered the table.

Mr. and Mrs. Amell left on a motor trip through the Calgary, Banff, Windermere route. On their return the couple will take up residence in Coleman.

Italian Lodge Observes 46th Anniversary

About 230 people gathered at the Italian hall on Friday, May 23 to mark the 46th anniversary of the founding of the Italian Lodge. Lodge president "Joe D'Appolonia welcomed the members and guests to the banquet.

The Coleman lodge has the largest membership and is the most active of the lodges which make up the Grand Lodge whose headquarters are in Fernie. The first original lodge was begun in Lille in 1906. In the years that followed the order grew in size and scope until today its membership totals over 150.

Tribute was paid to the founders of the lodge. As customary, the oldest member and the most active member in the lodge received a gift. Recipients this year were Mr. David Gentile, at whose shoe shop the lodge held its meeting years ago. The gift was accepted by Angelo Gentile on behalf of his father. The presentation for most active member went to Mr. Frank DeCocco, who, in all his years as a member, has held almost every position in the lodge.

Mrs. Dora Seaman, president of the Ladies' lodge presented gifts to the oldest and most active members of the sister lodge. This presentation went to Mrs. Joe DeCocco and Mrs. Bruna Benedetto respectively.

The Ladies' Lodge presented their executive with corsages. Recipients were: president, Dora Seaman; deputy Genoveffa Rizzo, assistant president Katie Benedetto, treasurer Frances Bartolotti, and secretary Mary Atkinson. Elsie Coccoloni was presented with a corsage for her preparation of the banquet.

The members then rounded off the evening by dancing and singing until the wee hours of the morning.

Retiring Miners Feted

About 30 officials of Coleman Collieries gathered in the club room of the Grand Union Hotel to honor Joe Hillary and Miet Weikowski, employees by that company as fire boss and engineer respectively.

During the supper, presided over by Bill Fraser, H. W. Clarke presented Mr. Hillary with a Parker "51" pen and pencil set. Mr. A. Graham presented Mr. Weikowski with a like gift.

Following the supper the gathering participated in a sing song and occasional solo numbers.

Preparations Made For Hard Topping

Preparatory work for the hard surfacing of No. 3 Highway is well underway and assurance is given that the road will be completed this year.

Shaping is nearly complete from Lundbrek to Bellevue, with a start made this week on laying the base course from Bellevue east. Twelve trucks are engaged in this work. Ditching for the Coleman water lines will be complete within a couple of weeks and ready for the hardtop by the time the crew arrives.

Some slow up was experienced in this work when the crews encountered rock that necessitated blasting.

Pee Wee Teams Honored at Banquet

40 Pee-Wees were the guests of honor at a banquet given by the Elks, Pattinson Lions and the Coleman Legion in the club room of the Grand Union Hotel on Thursday, May 29.

The captains of the teams were introduced to the guests from the sponsoring clubs and each captain in turn introduced the members of his team. All the sponsors gave words of encouragement to the boys. They pointed out the value of the brand of hockey played by the Pee-Wees in developing sportsmanship, responsibility and citizenship. They were encouraged to always give their best to the game and carry that attitude to their social and later to their business life.

Mr. Jack Jones presented William Truch with the Legion Memorial Award as the outstanding player of the year. William, in the net for the Lions, scored nine shutouts in fifteen matches, allowing only 12 goals to be scored against him during the whole season. Mr. Jones also pointed out the outstanding academic ability of William in school and his sportsmanship off and on the ice. A smaller replica of the award was presented to William, along with the larger one. The smaller one he will retain and cherish all his life. After the presentation of the most award, tribute was paid to the fallen of World Wars I and II. Mr. Ray Spillers spoke to the boys on their year's work. He told the guests present of the record achieved by the Coleman Pee-Wee All-Stars. They were undefeated in 8 games played with other Pass teams. He emphasized to the boys that a player must first be a gentleman and then a hockey player.

Mr. P. Dickleson, on behalf of the Coleman Lions club, paid tribute to Mr. Spillers for his unselfish efforts in sponsoring recreation to the youngsters of this town. The Lions club, on behalf of the citizens of Coleman, presented Mr. Spillers with a club bag as their choice of the outstanding citizen of Coleman.

Peter Matkovichuk presented Mr. Spillers with a travelling kit on behalf of all the Pee-Wees. After the dinner, the boys joined in some lusty singing, led by Mr. R. Hill and accompanied by Mr. Bert Bond at the piano.

Polish Combatants Present Fine Show

In observance of their National Day which falls on May 3, the local Polish Combatants Association entertained a large audience in the Polish hall on Sunday, May 25 with a diversified program that won applause of the large gathering assembled.

Consisting of plays and sketches, the entertainment was highlighted by the choir, who in turn owes its success in part to the coaching abilities of Mrs. R. Hill, who has spent many an appreciated hour with the group. A recitation by three little tots in their national costumes, and who were word perfect, stole the heart and applause of the audience. One sketch demanding a great deal of ingenuity was "The Battle of Monte Casino," the lighting and artillery effects being extremely well thought out.

In appreciation of her efforts, Mrs. Hill was presented with a beautiful bouquet of red carnations and white gardenias, these being the Polish national colors.

Ignac Kurlata was manager of the performance with R. Myrc as assistant.

R.C.E.M.E. Take Part in 'Operation Highwood'

Fourteen members of the Blainiere Military Troop, R.C.E.M.E. representing Blainiere & Coleman, participated in "Operation Highwood" 15 miles west of Longview last weekend.

Part of a major scheme, the local convoy joined Lethbridge at Staveland and proceeded to High River where they were joined by the Calgary convoy. Arriving at their rendezvous early Saturday evening, the troops concealed their vehicles from aerial view and made preparations for their bivouac under the stars. Members of the Calgary convoy provided the canteen.

Threat of rain and adverse road conditions in the area resulted in the cancellation of the exercises planned, the convoy returning Sunday.

Attending from Coleman were Lieut. Fontana, Sgt.-Mjr. F. Guelfard, Sgt. J. Panek, and Craftsmen D. Wilson, W. Neill, D. Vasek, D. Fraser, Vincent, M. Cornett, A. Cornett, Young, B. Plante.

Top Notch Talent At Bellevue Talent Hunt

The Bellevue Lions annual May 24 celebration went off very successfully again this year as approximately one thousand persons crowded the Bellevue arena to attend the Talent Hunt finals.

Contestants from Coleman, Blainiere, Bellevue, Hillcrest, Fernie, Natal-Michel, Pincher Creek, Cardston, Magrath, Claresholm and Hillspring showed talent of a high calibre. This was no amateur show but an excellent performance by very talented people. Southern Alberta and B.C. can be well assured that they are second to none in musical ability.

The eventual four winners were: first, Barbara Lee of Cardston, vocal solo; second, Joanne White of Pincher Creek, trumpet solo; third, William Bach of Claresholm, piano solo; fourth, Hillcrest Girls' Quartette, vocal quartette. The winners received $100, $75, $50 and $25 respectively. The four winners will appear on the Calgary Power Discovers radio show on Saturday, May 31.

A Rich Asset

OIL IS UPPERMOST in the minds of many residents of Western Canada today and there is good reason that this should be so. The discovery and development of oil and gas in the West has been of great importance to this part of Canada and there is every reason to believe that there are greater possibilities lying ahead in this field. Recent reports show that since the beginning of 1952 there has been a new "find" of gas or oil in the West every three days and that in the first 100 days of this year thirty new wells were found which gave gas or oil.

Many Wells In Alberta

As has been the case so far in finding oil and gas in the West, most of the new wells are in Alberta. So far this year there have been eleven new discoveries of oil in that province and twelve of gas. In Saskatchewan, two gas wells and two oil wells have been discovered, while in British Columbia there have been three new discoveries of natural gas and several shallow oil wells have been found in parts of the North West Territories. In Alberta, most of the discoveries which have been made this year have been in the central part of the province where there has been considerable activity throughout the past year in the search for new sources of gas and oil.

A New Era In The West

The discovery of oil and gas in the West has affected the economy of this part of Canada in a number of ways. It has attracted capital investment from all parts of Canada and from other countries to develop these rich natural resources, while employment has been provided for many hundreds of people, both residents of the province and those attracted from other places because of the activity there. This increase in capital investment and employment has been due not only to the production of gas and oil but to other industries which are attracted to the area because of the availability of these two important products. It has indeed marked the beginning of a new era in the West, one which is yet far from having reached its fullest development, and there is little wonder that these new oil fields are of foremost interest at this time to Canadians and to many people in other lands, who may in time look to them for vital fuel supplies.

Cannot Take Game From Here To U.S.

WASHINGTON—The Fish and Wildlife Service said that sportsmen hunting in Canada this fall will be barred from bringing their kill into the United States.

The ban applies to all down-hoofed animals, including moose, deer, elk, caribou, mountain goat, mountain sheep and antelope. Albert M. Day, director of the service said transportation of these animals across the border will be prohibited as long as foot-and-mouth disease continues among Canadian cattle.

Day said small quantities of completely banded and thoroughly cooked meat from any of these animals, intended for personal consumption, may be brought back if approved at the border by U.S. inspectors.

Hides or skins also are not to be brought back if they are hard-dried, or if consigned to a government-approved establishment for disinfecting or processing.

Blind Girl Third In Dance Class

VANCOUVER.—The judge didn't know, when she placed 10-year-old Lois Goodine third in a class of 20, that the little tap-dancer was blind. Lois began to take tap-dancing lessons about a year ago and did her first solo after only 13 lessons.

At the British Columbia dance festival recently she entered a class of 20 between the ages of 10 and 13. The judge, Helen Chase of Seattle, said that she noticed something wrong with the little girl's eyes, but never suspected that she was blind when she marked the score card.

Lois, a student at the Vancouver school for the blind, also plays the piano and the mouth-organ.

Birds Have Housing Problems Too

LAC DU BONNET, Man.—Nature seems to have its housing problems, too.

An early-bird house sparrow began nesting in an air ventilator in a house here. But a later-arriving swallow has been using the ventilator for a nest for the last seven years.

The affair came to a bizarre ending when the swallow killed the sparrow. The sparrow's nest was destroyed, and two swallows carried material into the ventilator for a new nest.

Freezing Plant Needed In Antarctic

BUENOS AIRES.—Argentina has installed a freezing plant in Antarctica's most advanced outpost where the temperature drops to 60 degrees below zero. A dispatch from the Graham Land base said the plant was needed to prevent foodstuffs from spoiling during the summer when the temperature climbs to 50 degrees.

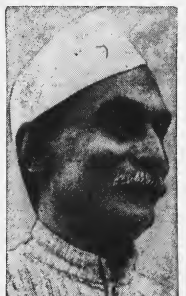

LOCOMOTIVE'S LAST TRIP

NANAIMO, B.C.—A locomotive which hauled coal around here for 70 years was presented to the city and has been placed in Piper's Park. Coal mined in an old pit which closed down in 1899 was gathered to provide power for the engine's last journey.

U.S. Bidders At Canadian Auction

In Oakville, Ont., to auction his cattle along with dozens of others from Quebec and the Maritimes, Premier J. Walter Jones of Prince Edward Island sold this four-year-old cow, Abegweit Flush for $1,025. The bull calf, Abegweit Limestone sold for $1,500. Canadian dealers were pleased by the bidding of U.S. livestock men who bought cattle at the auction in spite of the embargo placed by the U.S. following the hoof-and-mouth disease outbreak in the prairies.—Central Press Canadian.

Caribou Herds In Hudson Bay Area Do Well

CHURCHILL, Man.—Eskimos in the Churchill area had plenty to eat during the past winter.

Reports from the coast of Hudson Bay and points at least 100 miles inland say there have been more caribou than for many years. Many wintered in the area.

Further back in the barren lands, the caribou went south in September and none wintered there. The trek back north is reported to have begun two months earlier than for several years.

Animals were seen moving in smaller bands of 400 and more, instead of great herds. One herd of several thousand caribou was seen around Chesney. It took three days to pass that point.

FLOWING WELL PRODUCES 300 GALLONS OF SOFT WATER

PENZANCE, Sask.—A flowing well which has been gushing out 300 gallons of soft water per minute has been drawing hundreds of sightseers to the Jack Drummond farm, one half mile north of here.

The well was found recently while Tidewater Oil company was drilling a test well on Mr. Drummond's farm. So far attempts to stop the flow of water have not been successful.

Urges "All Out" Drive For American Visitors

NEEPAWA, Man.—Manitobans were urged to drop their attitude of complacency toward the tourist industry and "go all out" to encourage a greater flow of American visitors in future years.

Speaking to the mid-year directors' meeting of the Manitoba Associated Chambers of Commerce, past president E. C. Gilliat, Winnipeg, told members they could learn much from tourist promotional activities in the U.S.

Promotional activities in many sections there, he said, had been developed to a "fine art," with wage-earners, industry and government agencies working together to their common advantage.

This year, Mr. Gilliat said, it had been estimated that Manitoba's tourist industry would be worth about $24,000,000. In comparison, Arizona, "an arid state with much less to offer than Manitoba," attracted some $150,000,000 in tourist money last year.

Clean accommodation, good food, service and additional hard-surfaced roads, Mr. Gilliat said, would do much to boost the tourist volume. Completion of the Trans-Canada highway was described as "essential".

Changes In Farm Loan Act Outlined

OTTAWA.—Proposed changes in the Canadian Farm Loan act to allow the farm loan board to make larger loans to farmers, were outlined in the commons by Finance Minister Abbott.

Mr. Abbott said at present the board cannot loan more than $5,000 on a first mortgage, and $6,000 on a first and second mortgage together. The new bill will increase these limits to $10,000 and $12,000 respectively.

The present act limits a first mortgage loan to 50 per cent. of the actual value of land and buildings, and buildings are considered only to the extent they add to the value of the land as farm land, he continued. The new bill will increase the limit on a first mortgage loan to 60 per cent., and the limit of the first and second mortgage together to 70 per cent. of the value of the security in those provinces where no such security can be taken, he said.

The board's operation will also be enlarged by allowing second mortgage loans to be used to purchase land, Mr. Abbott said. He felt experience had shown the restriction against such use, in the present act, could be safely removed.

An amendment to the act provides for the establishment of an advisory board to discuss with the farm loan board such questions as lending policies, principles underlying valuation of farm property, and conditions affecting lending policy on loans, Mr. Abbott continued.

Another amendment would transfer auditing the board's accounts from a private firm to the auditor general of Canada.

Mr. Abbott told G. M. Murray (L.-Cariboo) the board's losses had been very small.

Mr. Murray said the board should be more generous, and make provisions for a little loss. In the Peace River country few loans were made because of the unwillingness of the board to take any chances, he claimed.

FIRST AID

First Aid is just what the two words imply, namely the earliest possible intelligent aid or help given to the victim of an accident or sudden illness. This aid is usually of a temporary nature only, to be given at once, at the scene of the accident or sudden illness and before a doctor is available to assume responsibility.

Punctured Wounds

Stepping on an upright nail, stabs with any pointed instrument or bullet holes, are all examples of punctured or penetrating wounds. The skin opening is small but the wound may be deep and penetrate muscles or even body cavities such as the chest, abdomen or joints. It is impossible to estimate the extent or seriousness of these wounds by their outward appearance.

The great danger in punctured wounds is infection.

First Aid—Remove any small missile which is still sticking into the wound. Encourage bleeding in order to wash the wound from within out. Thoroughly cleanse the skin, apply a sterile or clean dry dressing, bandage firmly and splint if necessary. Refer without delay to a doctor. If the missile is large and may possibly have caused extensive internal injuries, it should be left in position until the victim has been placed in the care of a physician or a hospital.

Crushing Wounds

Crushing wounds may cause serious injury to deep structures without any sign of damage to the skin. Crushing injuries are accompanied by severe shock.

Simple and Complicated Wounds If the wound is the only injury suffered, such wounds are known as simple or uncomplicated. However, if the damage be more extensive producing severe bleeding, fractures, extensive soiling or dirt in the wounds, or even infection, then complications must be recognized, as the First Aider must include them in his care.

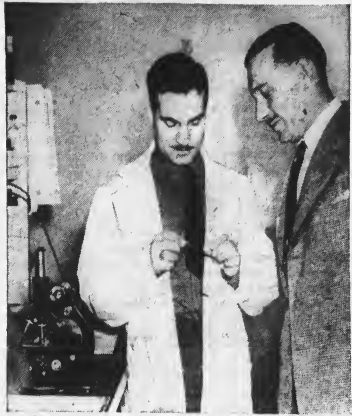

Summary

All wounds, small or large, are liable to infection. Therefore, cover the wound with a sterile or clean dressing without delay.

No strong antiseptics such as Iodine, should be applied to a wound any larger than a scratch.

Large deep wounds may be accompanied by severe bleeding which demands immediate attention.

Do not attempt to cleanse a wound unless you have all the facilities of abundant water and clean basins. A half cleansed wound is more liable to have infection added than removed. Always watch the victim for the early signs of shock and take measures to prevent or care for this condition.

Expert Says More Good Women Car Drivers Than Bad

TORONTO.—There are two types of women drivers—good and poor, says Mrs. Kay Petre, famed woman racing driver.

Mrs. Petre first began racing in 1933 on the noted British track, Brooklands. She wound up third in her first crack at car racing but in 1937 she set a record for women drivers of 150 to 160 miles an hour.

She thinks there are more good than poor women drivers in Canada, and that, she says, is because they start driving at an early age.

Mrs. Petre, women's advisor to the British motor industry, is in Canada to find out what Canadian women drivers like in cars. They've told her they like gay, attractive colors, inside and out. They want handy ash trays that don't stick, roomy glove compartments, leather upholstery and lots of windows.

Return Of Service

A player who will study the factors of successful "service return" can gain a big advantage. Here are a few to remember.

1. Stand close enough to the service line so that you can receive the serve as the ball is rising. By doing this you will be able to return the serve before the server has a chance to recover sufficiently to get into position. Then too, just a few quick steps will bring you to the net which, of course, is a big advantage if you are a good net player.

2. Practice returning the serve down the sideline closest to you. If such a shot is placed deep and hit fairly hard it is a very difficult one for the server to get and is also an ideal shot to follow to the net—thus giving you the offensive right away.

3. Another excellent return of service is a cross-court shot (from your side of your court to the opposite side in your opponent's court). This shot, when placed so that it bounces just about half way down the court, about the service line, is very difficult for the server to get. A person who nixes up this shot with the one that goes straight down the sideline will make many a server wish he were playing two other guys!

4. Unless using the cross-court placement shot, always return the ball as deeply into your opponent's court as possible.

5. If the server has a soft service, start right off and try to place it for a point every time, hitting as hard as you can with safety. This will discourage and unsettle him and he will, perhaps, start to serve harder and if this is not his usual habit he will serve many double faults.

6. If up against a server who has a good service, which he follows to the net in an attempt to put away your return, your best plan is to hit the ball so that it lands near his feet as he comes up—this will upset his attack very effectively.

How To Pass a Man in Track

By passing an opponent do it decisively and unexpectedly with a sudden burst of speed—don't just add a little to your pace. The idea is to get past him before he realizes you are planning to move ahead. If you have the lead it is usually wise to speed up and prevent an opponent from passing you, unless that person is not a dangerous opponent but someone merely trying to set a "fast pace" early in the race.

Desire

Yes, every athlete who wants to hit the top must have a great desire-to-excell—he must have a fiery, long lasting desire to fulfill his ambitions that will not be quenched by early failures, discouraging "bad breaks" and lack of facilities. So, remember, to succeed you must want to succeed very much, and you must keep the "desire" alive and make it even stronger no matter what the odds are, how high the jump seems to be. This is the all-important foundation on which you can build your athletic or fitness career—it will help you develop the other secrets of success.

On The Side : E. V. Durling

The Smaller the Better

It is constantly claimed little women prefer big men. That all entire, little tricks are wild to marry big-footers. Research does not confirm this. Many little women prefer to marry men of similar height or just a little taller. Five feet seven seems the popular height for husbands among the petite females. I have heard it claimed that the smaller men make the best husbands. Not only that, it has been said they make better lovers.

The French Solution

In New York if you try to get acquainted with a beautiful female stranger you are likely to be arrested by the nearest policeman. In Paris, a policeman would help you to meet her. That's what a Frenchman claims. Seems a slight exaggeration. But keep it in mind, anyhow, the next time you are in Paris. The problem of passersby being able to become acquainted without being arrested or losing their social standing has always interested me. It works both ways. Many a young woman wishes she could meet some handsome man she sees in passing. But nothing can be done about it. And the man passes out of her life. How about introduction bureaus in cities? Or official hostesses. If passersby, who are strangers, could be brought together, it would undoubtedly result in some beautiful friendships and perhaps happy marriages.

Burglar Alarm

More originality is needed in burglar alarms and devices to discourage bank hold-ups. Have heard of an unusual burglar alarm invented by an Englishman. This calls for a series of buttons concealed under rugs and carpets. When a burglar steps on one of these buttons a phonograph recording is automatically turned on. This recording consists of a series of wild and piercing feminine shrieks intermingled with cries of, "Help! Murder! Police!" Nothing is so effective in scaring off burglars as feminine shrieks.

Smart Fellow

How are you doing with the ladies, young fellow? No doubt you know how women admire consideration and thoughtfulness in a man. Well, a young man I know told me that whenever he takes a feminine thing of beauty out, he carries along a pair of nyons in her size. He keeps this a secret. Then, when the girl has a run in her stocking he surprises and pleases her by producing the nyons. He says the results are terrific.

Easy Housekeeping

It's easy for a bachelor to keep house in a city. Every type of house-keeping service is available. When a bachelor has a smooth-working household it is a source of irritation to married women. It makes them feel unnecessary. It also inclines them to believe the situation will have a bad effect on their husbands. They fear that seeing a bachelor so happy and comfortable will make their husbands mourn for the loss of their liberty.

To Plant Speckled Trout In Lakes Of National Parks

WINNIPEG.—A shipment of 8,000 lake and speckled trout fingerlings from the government hatchery on the lower Malvern river, near Jasper Park Lodge, Alberta, will be made to certain lakes in Prince Albert National Park in Saskatchewan and Riding Mountain park in Manitoba early in June.

The object is to develop trout fishing in those areas within the next few years.

J. S. MacDonald, general passenger agent, Canadian National railways, said in Montreal that the national parks branch of the resources and development department had completed arrangements with the railway to provide a baggage car at Jasper for the shipment in tanks of these fingerlings.

Representatives of the national parks branch will accompany the shipment.

On arrival at Saskatoon, the tanks containing 2,000 speckled trout will be removed from the train and immediately driven to selected lakes in the Prince Albert park.

A similar operation will take place at Rivers, where the tanks containing 6,000 lake trout fingerlings will be trucked to lakes in Riding Mountain park. Both parks are located away from rail lines.
